The Complex Metal Solutions Plant (ZKMR) was launched in 2015. It consists of a 1,500 sq.m workshop built in-house and a 2,000 sq.m warehouse. Essentially, ZKMR is a wholesale plant engaged in serial production. All production lines were independently commissioned. When creating ZKMR, we knew its purpose was to solve client problems through innovative products. We understood our work would always operate in the "impossible" zone. But! We have innovative R&D, a strong engineering department, and unwavering production capabilities.

Since 2022, ZKMR has been a Skolkovo resident.

The plant is unique because all production lines were developed in-house, with 90% having no direct analogs. We plan to introduce several more unique solutions to the market in the near future.

Description:

The "Wild Flora of Primorye Far East" Project began implementation in 2011. In collaboration with "Pacific Management Company," LLC "Wild Flora of Primorye Far East" explored innovative potential to identify and invest in projects with an innovative foundation. During this work, it became clear that despite the presence of substantial infrastructure (Far Eastern Branch of the Russian Academy of Sciences, industry-specific institutes like TINRO, and the established Far Eastern Federal University), there was no real integration of scientific developments into economic practice. This led to the idea of creating a business that would allow scientists to practically apply their research and make it accessible to a wide range of consumers. We gathered the most interesting and "time-tested" solutions in the field of prevention and united them under the common brand "Wild Flora of Primorye." Currently, the company offers a diverse range of preventive products: syrups made from hawthorn, lingonberry, viburnum, raspberry, schisandra, blueberry, eleutherococcus with rosehip; syrups from ginseng and chaga; honey with various additives from wild plants and marine products (chaga, eleutherococcus, ginseng, sea cucumber); jams from schisandra, lingonberry, and viburnum; Japanese kelp, fibers from brown algae and seagrasses (nanostructured); various extracts from bivalve mollusks, salmon milt, squid nerve cells, salmon liver, sea cucumber, a product from sea urchin roe, chitosan from Kamchatka crab and sea cucumber shells, calcium vitabalance, etc.

Description:

LLC «Molodets-DV» - a startup, resident of the «Russky» Technopark, established in December 2015 as a developer and manufacturer of functional food products based on natural ingredients to address health problems as an alternative to drug therapy. The global market for functional products is intensively developing, growing by 15-20% annually. In Japan, the growth of this market is estimated at $8-9 billion per year, and its production has become a strategic direction of the country's development. The potential of the global functional food market is 5% of the total volume. The company's team includes the founder, young scientists, an international lawyer, a medical consultant, and a Chinese language linguist-translator.

Currently, LLC «Molodets-DV» promotes its own brand «Sea Hematogen». «Sea Hematogen» is a syrup based on sea urchin and raw honey, containing many antioxidants – quinoid pigments – echinochrome and spinochromes A, B, C, D, E. These substances have a range of beneficial properties, including antioxidant, cardioprotective, immunomodulatory, and anti-inflammatory activity. The unique properties of honey are also known. These active substances are unstable to high temperature and light, problematic in storage. We have solved this problem in our product. The syrup «Sea Hematogen» is intended for consumption without additional processing as a sweetener for drinks and other products, sold in retail, with and without preservatives.

LLC «Molodets-DV» is looking for an investor to scale the business, as we wouldn't be on the market if we didn't know it was worth doing.
